

Amy Mitchell is the Assistant Director of the Oldham County History Center. Mitchell holds a bachelor's degree in History, Social Studies and Secondary Education from Western Kentucky University and a master's degree in Museum Studies from Baylor University. Mitchell has over 13 years of experience in the museum field, working for some of the largest natural and cultural history museums in Texas before her return to Kentucky. She is a member of the American Alliance of Museums, the American Association of State and Local History, and a past member of the Texas Association of Museums. As a seasoned museum educator, she believes that museums have the power to transform the lives of visitors through hands-on, immersive experiences that inform about the past and inspire the future.
