

Introduction of Christina Hartlieb

Christina Hartlieb grew up in Indianapolis and graduated from Hanover College along the Ohio River in Indiana. She has lived in Cincinnati for the past 25 years. She has a master's degree in history and a graduate certificate in Women's Studies from the University of Cincinnati. She spent 11 years as a high school social studies teacher before transitioning into museum education and administration.

Christina is passionate about historical literacy and visits museums and historic sites whenever she gets the chance. She also enjoys reading, hiking with her family, and watching movies.

As the Executive Director of the Harriet Beecher Stowe House, it was a natural fit for Christina to talk about Harriet's life in Cincinnati, the role of her family and the Lane Seminary in abolitionism and her legacy of social justice.

In addition to her work at the Harriet Beecher Stowe House, Christina is a member of the Ohio Local History Alliance and is presenting at their October online conference. She is active in the Walnut Hills community and is currently the Vice President of UC's Friends of Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies support organization.

According to Hartlieb:

"We can all learn from listening to this series of important stories. The past and present intersect in many ways."
